

Left to right are Sam Zamora of STEPS, Lauren Batson (11), Sheree Kendall (12), both of Samson Primary School, and Matthew Treadgold of STEPS.

www.communitypix.com.au d307910

Pupils learn the STEPS

STUDENTS from Samson Primary School were treated to a performance from STEPS Dance Company at the Playhouse Theatre in Perth last week.

The performance, taken from STEPS' latest production Moonwebs and Scorched Thongs, explored the history and stereotypes of gender.

The trip was part of the Hawaiian Alive initiative – a program developed by property group Hawaiian to provide activities for Perth students that enrich the school's curriculum.

Samson Primary School education teacher Marion Burt said the trip to the theatre was well received by students.

Dancers also answered questions from students after the performance and spoke to them about the life of professional dancers.